RE: KatloTech Next Generation Fibre Optic Network

Good Morning Lyle,

On behalf of the Board of Directors and staff of Western James Bay Telecom Network (WJBTN), I am pleased to provide a letter supporting the KatloTech Next Generation Fibre Optic Network Project.

We recognize the economic promise that will be realized within the Northwest Territories and environs once the project is turned up to serve these communities. What we have learned from our own experience, is that reliance on government assistance is reduced in regions where fibre connectivity is deployed because our local economies, driven by local, innovative entrepreneurs, take hold and prosper.

As well, the standard of living will be raised for all. The quality of healthcare will improve for all. The costs for travel for healthcare will be reduced as each community will have the capacity for x-rays, CAT scans and face to face over IT consultations between medical professionals and patients. There will be a multitude of digital platforms available for residents who can now only dream of attending college or university. No longer will residents have to uproot their families to further their education or leave them behind for several years.

KatloTech has stepped up as the proponent for this project which has at its' heart, an opportunity to enhance and expand on the inherent human capacity in each of these communities.

This project is a giant step in the right direction and corporate citizenship at its' best.

Sincerely,

Sally Braun, General Manager
on Behalf of the Board of Directors.
